

TASSEL Time

How am I going to afford college?
How do I find out if I qualify for financial aid?
When should I start applying for college?
When should I start looking for scholarships?
Where do I find reliable information about scholarships?
What kind of college entrance tests should I take?

Crossett High School wants to make parents, students and faculty aware of a resource that is available to access from home or school 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. We have a membership to TASSEL Time, a web based tool that has information to help you answer these questions and more. They have already done the research to provide pre-qualified websites, so you don't have to spend numerous hours finding the sites and then wondering if the site is legitimate. Tassel Time is possibly the most comprehensive post-high school planning tool ever assembled, including scholarship, career, athletic, collegiate, military and career premier sites. The TASSEL Time site was created by a counselor and designed to help all students be successful in planning for the future.

To access the site simply go to www.tasseltime.com and select the "member log-in" tab in the top right hand corner of the home page. You will be prompted to enter a username and password. Once you enter the username and password provided below you will then have access to the entire site from the Member Home page. You will find information about scholarships, ACT and SAT exam prep, athlete and NCAA recruitment, military sites, career search, and much more. There is a tab specifically for parents to help them navigate their way through helping their students prepare for life after high school, whether the plans include college, vocation, or military service. There is even a tutorial tab to help you learn how to navigate the TASSEL Time website.

Please take time to investigate this resource and visit it often. There is too much information to digest in one sitting. If you have questions please call or e-mail us here at Crossett High School.
